SAD44 budget hearing scheduled
BETHEL--A public hearing on the SAD44 FY '97 school budget is scheduled for 7 p.m. on Tuesday, April 23, in the Telstar High School Library. The SAD44 School Board Monday signed the warrants for the district budget referendum, scheduled for May 7. The $7,017,756 budget figure approved by the board in March is expected to cause no increase in the overall local share.

Budget books detail expenditures
BETHEL--SAD44 budget books are now available at district town offices and schools. The books contain the FY '97 general budget proposal with explanations of line items, the adult education budget, principals' and department reports, a municipal assessments review, negotiated agreements and miscellaneous other items. The books are available for public inspection at Andover Elementary School, Crescent Park School, Woodstock Elementary School, Telstar Middle School, Telstar High School, the Adult Ed. Office, the SAD44 bus garage, the Superintendent's Office, and Andover, Bethel, Greenwood, Newry and Woodstock town offices. The referendum on the FY '97 district budget is scheduled for Tuesday, May 7. For more information or questions regarding the budget call the Superintendent's Office at 824-2185.

Feds approve Bethel Savings merger
PORTLAND--The merger of Bethel Savings Bank, F.S.B., and Brunswick Federal Savings, F.A., to create the new Northeast Bank, F.S.B., has been approved by federal regulatory agencies. Both the Bethel and Brunswick banks are wholly owned subsidiaries of Bethel Bancorp, a publicly-held corporation. The two subsidiaries have eight community branches, serving four Maine counties. The assets of the new Northeast Bank will be over $200 million. Bethel Bancorp will change its name to Northeast Bancorp, with the NASDAQ trading symbol NEBC. The headquarters of Northeast Bancorp will be in Lewiston/Auburn.

Selectmen oppose NOVA vote setup
RUMFORD--Four Rumford selectmen last week signed a letter to state officials objecting to the manner in which a decision on a proposed NOVA addition will be made. The addition would be built onto Mountain Valley High School in Rumford. A referendum is scheduled for November in the 17-town vocational region, which includes SADs 43, 44 and 21. SAD43 is made up of Rumford, Byron, Roxbury and Mexico. They are the only towns that would have to pay the $6 million mortgage for the proposed project, according to Roxbury selectman Tina Howard. Howard said the towns in SAD44 and 21 could override voters in SAD43 on the proposed addition. As to who would pay the mortgage, NOVA director Dewaine Craig said the other NOVA towns would share in the cost, but not in as great a proportion as SAD43 due to the state's current circuit-breaker program. The program takes into account the amount of debt service districts are already paying in figuring their shares on new construction.

Rabid raccoons in Harrison
HARRISON--One -- and possibly two -- rabid raccoons were found in Harrison Village last week, according to Town Manager Mike Thorne. One animal was destroyed after fighting with a dog near the Town Office on Friday. It tested positive for rabies. Another raccoon was seen chasing cars on Route 117, but it was struck and an autopsy was not possible. Its behavior indicated it probably did have the disease, Thorne said. He cautioned pet owners to keep their animals at home.

Windham residents oppose growth
WINDHAM--A group of Windham residents living on Route 302 are voicing their objections to proposed rezoning that would allow the construction of professional office buildings, according to a report in the Portland Press Herald. The town has grown steadily over the decades, and is a busy commercial center and large Portland suburb. Last week the town's Planning Board voted unanimously to recommend that the Town Council reject the zoning change. The council chairman said he does not believe the council will overrule the board.

Man takes restaurant to cleaners
WATERVILLE--Robert Kilian, 31, was charged this week with theft by deception after a Waterville restaurant paid his cleaning bill. Police allege that Kilian sent $4.50 sent cleaning bills to at least 50 restaurants in central Maine. The letters say his pants were stained while eating in the restaurant. "The guy admitted to writing at least 50 of these letters and even had some return letters from Waterville restaurants in his possession when (an officer) got there," Deputy Chief Joseph Massey said. "He said he did receive a stain on his trousers, but he just couldn't remember which restaurant it was," said Det. Alan Main. Those convicted of the Class E crime face up to a $1,000 fine.

Bard's "new" poem to be read
PORTLAND--A poem many scholars believe was written by William Shakespeare will be performed publicly for the first time this month at the Portland Museum of Art. If Shakespeare did write the poem, "A Funeral Elegy (for) William Peter," it will be the first work identified as the Bard's to surface since 1871. Professor Donald Foster of Vassar College discovered the poem and Professor Rick Abrams of the University of Southern Maine helped build the case supporting his theory of authorship. The poem is a funeral elegy for a young actor. While working on his doctoral studies, Foster first came across the little-known Elizabethan elegy about 13 years ago at the Bodleian Library at Oxford University. The 578-line work, signed with the initials W.S., was written for William Peter, a 30-year-old from Devonshire who was murdered in 1612 after spending the day drinking with two companions.

Ski dogs abandoned
STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo.--The spring thaw signals the end of the ski season in this resort town and also the exodus of resort workers, who too often leave their pet dogs and cats behind. "They just dump 'em," said Animal Control officer Gerard Geis. In the past three weeks more than 100 animal complaints, mostly dog-at-large, were called in to the animal shelter. In that time, the number of filled dog cages -- like holding tanks at a county jail -- has grown from three to nine. The pets are held five days in hopes an owner will reclaim them. They are held another five days or so during an adoption period before they are euthanized.

Ski binding inventor dies
PORTLAND, Ore.--Hjalmar Hvam, one of the top U.S. skiers in the 1930s and inventor of the ski safety binding, has died after being stricken with a heart attack. He was 93. Hvam, a member of the U.S. Ski Hall of Fame, came to Oregon from Kongsberg, Norway, in 1927. He was an accomplished ski racer in the 1930s and was the first winner in 1936 of the Golden Rose race at Mount Hood, the nation's oldest ski race. He qualified for the U.S. Olympic team in 1936, but declined to compete in Hitler's Germany. He was a coach with the 1952 Olympic team. Hvam changed the ski industry after winning his second Golden Rose at Mount Hood in 1937. While showing off with his friends following his victory, Hvam landed wrong on a jump and broke his leg. While hospitalized, he used his training as a draftsman to design the first self-release ski binding. Called Saf-Ski, the binding was popular around the world into the 1960s.

of the responses. He also said according to responses on a survey accompanying the test, most of the class members view themselves as average students in most subject areas. Blackman said many of the students' scores were down from those of their fourth-grade year, when the test had a different format. No eighth-graders were excluded from testing. (Some special education students are sometimes excluded from the test.) There was little discussion of the results by the board Monday, since they received the 19-page report at the meeting.

School evacuation reviewed
The board also heard a report from Supt. Ron Jenkins and Telstar High School principal Ted Davis on the evacuation of the Telstar complex during last week's bomb threats. They said that for the most part, the staff and students handled the situation well, with the assistance of the police and fire departments and other volunteers. There was confusion, according to some high school students, about whether they could leave in their cars when the building was evacuated. Davis said students should not have left. He said a staff member had allowed some to leave on Monday.

Bethel Area Health Center
The Bethel Area Health Center, in conjunction with the F.T. Hill Center for Communication Disorders, will offer free hearing testing April 13 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. No appointment is necessary. There are no age restrictions and each person will have individual results discussed with them by a licensed audiologist. They will be given the test results for their own records.

threat to get his friends out of school. High school principal Ted Davis said six high school and 20 middle school students came forward with information about the incident. Information offered by two of the high school students helped bring about the arrest, he said. Supt. Ron Jenkins said the district will prosecute "to the fullest extent of the law."

Other charges
Buck had been charged separately on April 1 with criminal threatening and disorderly conduct, according to a police log report. A Bethel resident, who had been riding his bike along Main Street about 6 p.m., reported that a car stopped near him and Buck stepped out with a wooden baseball bat in his hand. He allegedly accosted the complainant with profanity and threats of assault, then left in the car. About 40 minutes later, the same car, driven and occupied by juveniles, was stopped by police. The occupants told a story similar to the complainant's, and said they had dropped Buck off at a Bethel residence. According to the police report, Buck was later found at the residence and questioned. He admitted to the incident as being a "stupid joke," and was charged. The residence was allegedly the location from which Buck had made the bomb threat call earlier in the day.

From the Bethel Police log:
Tailgater gets summons
On April 4 at 8:05 p.m., a Flat Road resident and four other subjects reported they were being followed and yelled at by two juveniles in a car. The driver reportedly followed extremely close and continually put his high beams on and off. The juvenile was expected to be summoned (after statement forms were received from the complainants) for following too closely and failing to dim lights. Both juveniles were warned for harassment.
Also on April 4
At 2:15 a.m., a Big Apple employee reported that a male subject was at the store and had stated to her he had been thrown out of a vehicle and assaulted. Police spoke to the subject, who said he had a fight with his parents and they made him get out of the vehicle. During the incident he was assaulted, he said. He had a mark on his neck and head, but said he did not want to press charges. Police spoke with the parents, who said their son was intoxicated and attempting to drink more beer in the vehicle. They said they began to argue, and the son asked to get out of the vehicle. A neighbor was sent to pick up the son.

the dark the longest.
"The cities would get priority," he said.

Still, Dixon said, there are some locals who might fare all right on their own.

"People with woodstoves would be O.K. Some of the old-timers would survive nicely," he said.

In Gilead, Fire Chief Ken Cole knows the town can rely on the National Guard's Bog Brook facility in the event of a large-scale or long-term emergency.

Bog Brook can hold and feed up to 500 people. Gilead has a population of about 200.

Short of a need that large, Cole said the Town Hall, which has a woodstove, could hold up to 30-40 people.

The Fire Department's 4,000-watt portable generator could also power the hall or the fire station, he said.

Would residents realize where they could go for shelter if power, and possibly phone lines, were cut off?

The CEP directors think the answer, in most cases, is yes.

Brad Wight of the Newry Fire Department said firefighters could also go door to door in town to let people know where shelter was available.

For Newry, Wight said, that would likely be the Sunday River Fire Station. Two 4,500-watt generators there could power a few lights and a heat source.

He said the Town Office, on the other side of town, could also be set up with a generator, if needed.

Wright said the town has no plan for dealing with evacuees of Sunday River Ski Resort's luxury condominiums. That has been left to the ski resort.

Wright also has a generator that could be set up in the town fire station in the event of a blackout.

During the Town Manager's phone interview.

Wright probably also coordinate with the ambulance people on people who have breathing apparatus. "I think the ambulance clubs stand ready to transport people, too," he said.

What would happen in the case of different type of emergency, say, for example, if last month's tanker truck spill in Woodstock had involved a toxic chemical?

Improvise, in most cases.

"We'd have to identify what's there, then play it by ear," said Greenwood Fire Chief Wayne Hakala.

He said evacuation to the the Legion Post or fire station probably wouldn't be practical.

"They're in a bad location, because the problem would probably either come from a train or Route 26," he said.

Both buildings are near Route 26 and the train tracks.

Hakala said a representative of Boise Cascade's Haz-Mat team, which helped with the oil spill cleanup, met with the Fire Department recently to review how it was handled.

Ron Smith, Greenwood's CEP, said the area is fortunate not to have had a spill before now.

"With all the trucks going through there (Route 26) I'm surprised it hasn't happened before this," he said.

Monk, who is also Woodstock's road foreman and was one of the first on the scene of the recent oil truck spill, said it's difficult to have a plan for every scenario.

"You have to see where the incident starts, and go from there. You can't designate ahead of time a place for people to go. What if there's a tanker on fire next to the Town Office?" he said.

Tight town and county budgets don't allow for extensive planning, either.

CEP directors Monk and Smith make $200 and $100 a year, respectively.

Ken Whitman, the director of the Oxford County Emergency Management Agency, said the county's resources include a 15 kilowatt generator, a mobile feeding unit and a mobile command unit belonging to PACE ambulance service.

For shelter, the county coordinates with the Red Cross to obtain agreements with schools to use them for shelter and cooking.

The county can also go through the state to get help from the National Guard, Whitman said.

Beyond that, he said, the responsibility goes back to the towns.

ily, although many voters had left during the school articles. The meeting is scheduled to resume May 15 at 7 p.m.

Thompson said after the meeting that he and Withjack had spent about 20 hours going over the books, but were unable to balance them.

At that point, he said, he gave the books to auditor Ron Lubier to look for mistakes, and is still waiting to hear back from him.

Thompson said the treasurer's report does balance.

The school budget will have to be reconsidered at a later date as well.

Townpeople had approved three out of the four articles to pay for educating their children in Errol, N.H., when the question of whether to send the students to Errol or SAD44 was raised.

The children attended school in Errol this year, after having previously gone to SAD44 schools. The School Committee had recommended the Errol option again.

SAD44 Supt. Ron Jenkins told voters the funding they had approved would not be enough to cover the SAD44 bill, if they decided to switch.

The total cost for Errol would be $56,638, while a SAD44 education would cost $63,289.

With three of the money articles already approved, Jenkins said, the town would have to have a special Town Meeting to raise the additional money for SAD44.

The final education article -- allowing the school committee to expend $56,638 -- was then defeated.

Townpeople also made several changes in elected officers.

Richard LeComte was elected selectman, replacing Connie Gagnon, who did not seek reelection.

Jerry Geiling was elected town clerk, tax collector and treasurer. He defeated Tammy Grondin for town clerk and tax collector, but was unopposed for treasurer.

Ellie LeComte was elected to the School Committee, also defeating Grondin.

Mike Lewit defeated incumbent road commissioner Jeff Scribner by one vote, 19-18.

THE SHOW WILL GO ON ... LATER--Newry selectman Wendy Hanscom's debut as a Town Meeting moderator was cut short Saturday when the Upton meeting recessed because of a question about the town's 1995 bookkeeping. The meeting will resume May 15. Above, Hanscom (standing) watches as townspeople vote. Seated are ballot clerks Violet Bernier, left, and Wanda Lavallee. (Photo by Allison Aloisio) eight-year period, from FY '94 to FY 2001.

Improvements recommended for the coming fiscal year total $214,600, with the largest expenditures going for streets and roads ($95,000), a highway truck with plow ($65,000), a new comprehensive radio network ($11,500), improvements at the ambulance barn ($7,600) and a consultant to review the condition of the current fire station and to cost out a substitution for West Bethel ($3,000).

If the CIP budget is approved as proposed the total town appropriation (including the operational budget) would be $1,479,101.

When the projected school $1,379,500 and county ($92,500) levies are added in, the total appropriation increases to $2,942,101, up $97,335 from the comparable figure this year.

The CIP Committee will make its recommendations to the combined Budget Committee, which will in turn make its recommendations to voters for Town Meeting in June.

The selectmen must also make their own budget recommendations.

This is the second year in which the selectmen and the Budget Committee have conducted a joint review of the proposed town expenditures.

Last year the process concluded with both boards in agreement on all of their major recommendations.

Augusta Roll Call Report:

Battle lines for fall election are set

By STEVEN STYCOS

Few people at the State House believe the cliché that there are no differences between the Republican and Democratic parties. During the last two years, lawmakers have established clear fault lines between the two parties. As a result, voters will have a clear choice at the polls in November.

Republican legislators, when asked what are the next legislature's major tasks, overwhelmingly say cutting the size of state government and reducing taxes. Democrats, however, stress increasing state aid for education and providing health care to citizens without insurance.

Members of both parties, however, are far less specific when pressed about the unpleasant aspects of their philosophy. Republicans rarely specify which state programs should be cut and Democrats are reluctant to talk about tax increases to finance their program ideas.

The philosophical clash of the two parties will come to a head in June 1997, when legislators finalize Maine's next two-year budget. But the outcome will be predetermined in the November elections. Should Republicans win strong majorities in both houses of the legislature, expect renewed pushes for tax cuts. "I've been here six years," says Sen. Joan Pendexter (R-Cumberland) voicing the Republican credo, "and I know the only way you cut spending is cut revenue."

Sen. Norman Ferguson (R-Oxford) says the next round of cuts will probably involve eliminating entire programs, not just shaving personnel from the state payroll. After the Productivity Realization Task Force, Ferguson says, "I think we've gone about as far as we can reducing staff."

On the other hand, if Democrats win control of both houses of the legislature, expect a strong push for increased aid to education, particularly for local schools. Without more state money, Democrats argue, municipalities will be forced to raise property taxes to finance their schools.

And it is unlikely there will be extra money lying around for education. Gov. Angus King already projects a $243-million deficit for the next two-year budget. And the projection assumes no increase in aid for local schools or the state university system.

If the state's financial picture does not improve in a big way, Democrats will probably push to repeal the income tax cut, scheduled to start in 1997.

Ferguson is a supporter of that law, which caps the total revenue the state can raise from the income tax. But he also would like to spend more money to solve a problem. "Our roads are deteriorating faster than we're fixing them," he notes.

Below is a summary of important roll call votes taken by the legislature in March. Also noted in the chart are legislators' attendance records, measured by the percentage of roll call votes for which they were present from Jan. 1 to March 27, 1996.

SENATE VOTES:

Widen Turnpike: 3/12/96 vote on LD 1690, sponsored by Sen. Jeff Butland (R-Cumberland), to have a referendum vote to widen the Maine Turnpike from York to South Portland to six lanes. The idea was rejected by voters in 1991, but widening supporters say they should be asked again. Opponents say study of transportation alternatives should be completed first. The bill passed 15-13.

Repeal Sensible Transportation Act: 3/25/96 vote on LD 59, sponsored by Sen. Charles Begley (R-Lincoln), to repeal the transportation planning law passed by voters in a 1991 referendum. The law requires the Department of Transportation to consider environmental impacts and public opinion when planning highway construction. Opponents say the law delays road building projects. The repeal bill failed 11-22.

Keep Standard Sludge Spreading Rule: 3/14/96 vote on LD1804, sponsored by Sen. Willis Lord (R-York), to allow municipal ordinances passed before 1989 to supersede state rules regulating spreading sewage sludge on land. Lord says the bill involved 12 towns which established tough sludge spreading rules before state rules took effect. Lord argues that municipalities should control local rules, but opponents say statewide rules are fairest and worry that the bill might lead to other exceptions. The bill was defeated 13-14. A "yes" vote is for killing Lord's bill.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Kill Turnpike Widening Bill: 3/13/96 vote to kill LD 1690 (see Senate vote above). The bill was defeated 87-48. A "yes" vote is for killing the turnpike widening bill.

Keep Sensible Transportation Act: 3/25/96 vote to kill LD59 (see Senate vote above). The bill was defeated 83-49. A "yes" vote continues the Sensible Transportation Act by killing the repeal bill.

Keep Standard Sludge Spreading Rule: 3/19/96 vote to kill LD 1804 (see Senate vote above). The effort to kill the bill was defeated 58-69. A "yes" vote is to kill the bill allowing exceptions to the state rule.

Establish Portland Arts Magnet School: 3/25/96 vote for LD 1756, sponsored by Sen. Jane Amero (D-Cumberland), to spend $185,000 to plan and develop a statewide high school for the arts in Portland. Supporters say the school will provide high-quality arts education and train arts teachers from around the state. Opponents say the school duplicates a private school underway in Bangor and drains scarce state funds from local schools. The bill was defeated 65-71.

Public Access to Info Superhighway: 3/26/96 vote on LD828, sponsored by Rep. Sharon Treat (D-Gardiner), to enable all Maine communities to use computerized information services like Internet. Financed by a 1.5-percent tax on telephone company revenues, the bill will pay for computers, service charges and training, so Maine schools and libraries can log on. Supporters say the bill will help all Maine citizens. Opponents say the 1.5-percent tax is too high. The bill passed 84-61.

The Calvary Congregational Church will host an area church Men's Prayer Breakfast to be held on Saturday, April 13, at 7 a.m. All men are welcome to join in the event.

If you are a user or a friend of the Andover library, come join your neighbors on April 13 or April 20 in a volunteer effort to paint the exterior of the library building. Men, women and teenagers will be working from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on each Saturday and would appreciate any time you could help. Please bring a paint brush, paint scraper, hat and safety glasses if you can. April 27 will be an alternate work day in case of rain or snow. If you have any questions, please call 392-1208.

The elementary school recently held their annual Curriculum Fair. The kindergartners completed several projects based on their science theme, dinosaurs. First-graders had their projects based on a combination social studies/language arts neighborhood unit. The second-graders reflected their study of whales and character models from classroom literature. Grade three used their projects on North American mammals. The students of the fourth grade created projects dealing with communication. The fifth-graders selected famous people in history to study. The sixth-graders created maps, students dressed in period garb and served up tasty food to guests. The students' friends and families enjoyed the open house and were impressed with the class projects and efforts.

Congratulations to the students who won the APS Math League competition grades four through six. The winners are: Craig Angevine and Ben Sabin earned the highest scores in each grade. Their names will be engraved on the new plaque to be displayed in the hall.

The moviemakers were in force last week filming a scene for the "Myth of Fingerprints" movie. The crews were set up on Main Street utilizing the Curiosity Shop storefront. They will soon return to shoot scenes at the Chandler house. The weather, reminiscent of a harsh November, was cooperating, as the movie is of a family reunited for a Thanksgiving vacation. Scenes for the movie are also being filmed in Bethel and Bryant Pond. Stars include Roy Scheider of "Jaws," Julianne Moore of "Nine Months," James LeGros of "Bad Boys" and Noah Wyle of NBC's "E.R."

Congratulations to Lester and Jean White, who recently celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on March 28th.

Franklin Grange 124 met Monday, April 1, for Youth Night with 25 present. Connie Tuttle, State Deputy and State Deaf Awareness chairman, was welcomed. There will be a free hearing clinic on May 4, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., at the grange hall. It is a grange community service with Southern Maine Hearing Aid Company and is open to the public. The cherry-nut cake contest was won by Dot Canwell and Russell Yates. They will now make one for the Pomona Grange contest. Next meeting, April 15, is Community Service as usual and is open to the public. The meeting starts at 7 p.m. All are welcome. Program opening thought by Bertha Benoit, opening song, "April Showers," Susie and Norma Meserve spoke about youth activities; the special guests didn't show up so there was no special speaker; Richard Felt and Dot Canwell played a couple songs; Bertha held a ceremony at the altar with a lighted candle, two readings and a song, with Laura Hutchins, Peggy Blake and Alice Hoyt helping her; Happy Birthday was sung to Jackie Stevens and Johnny Howe; closing thought by Bertha; and closing song by all. Bertha invited the Grange to attend together the Mission Congo Church at West Paris on April 28.

There will be an Easter Good News Club at the Baptist Church Annex on Thursday, April 18, from 6 to 7:15 p.m. All children are welcome. Bryant Pond hour on Channel IV T.V. is 3:30 p.m. on Wednesday and 7 p.m. on Thursday.

The Historical Society fosters greater understanding and insights. The museum has outstanding exhibits illustrating our past. Curator Larry Billings is always looking for interesting exhibits for the museum. The society promotes history and the humanities.

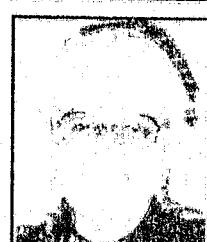

The Woodstock Extension will meet on April 17, 1 p.m., at the Town Annex. Wendy Legg Pollock will present a program on "Caregiving." A tasting party will be held. Joseph and Maggie Hoyt visited their dad, James, over the weekend. Sympathy is extended to the family of Gerald Walker.

Alder River Grange had a meeting on March 29. The literary program was on music. It was interesting to learn how many different kinds of music there are.

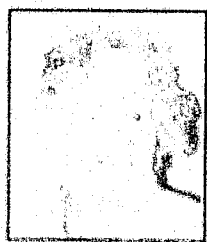

Carolyn Grant of Winterport visited Leslie Noyes and Nina Mollicone on March 30 and 31.

Gary Smith of Rumford and Donna Bernard of Andover took Polly Smith to dinner in Bridgton on March 31.

Stan and Esther Wilson and Grace Gibson were in Foxwood, Conn., on April 1. They were lucky, returning with more money than they went with.

Esther Wilson has been helping her sister, Charlotte Kimball, with her sapping.

North Newry

by Gil Seeley
Call to Worship was held at the Newry Community Church Sunday morning March 31st at 9 a.m. with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The message of the day was, "A March to Victory" from St. Matthew 21:10 and 11: "And when he came into Jerusalem, all the multitude said, 'This is Jesus, the prophet of Nazareth of Galilee,' and the city was moved, and threw branches of palms and chanted 'Hosanna in the highest.'"

The Waddy Valley Sno-Mobile Club met Tuesday night, April 2, at the Town Building with Owen

Wight presiding. Secretary Sylvia Harrington read the notes of the last meeting and a letter from the Fish and Game Department. Treasurer Bob Lowell brought the finances up to date. The club is planning on having a lawn sale sometime in June, more on this later.

Trailmaster Leon Dunn gave a report on trail grooming, etc., and a lot of discourse followed on building bridges. M.S.A. Director/Alternate Bill and Sylvia Wight reported on their Maine Sno-Mobile Association 311 Directors Meeting of March 19 at the Augusta Elks Club, Augusta. Their next one will be April 20 at Jeff's Banquet and Convention Center in Brewer.

The next Sno-Mobile Club meeting will be May 7 at the Town Building. A reminder to the members: there will be a ride-in buffet on April 19, Friday night, in Rumford at 6 p.m. The meeting was adjourned and coffee, etc., was enjoyed with more lively conversation.

Melissa Straus of North Waterford spent a few days here in North Newry with her grandparents, Bill and Sylvia Wight, and attended services at the Newry Community Church on Sunday.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Eleanor Davis and Olive Anderson, of the "Newry Bowling Gang," were in Rumford at the Oxford Lanes one day last week. On the overall scores, Karlene was high on the singles beating Betsy by one pin, and she also was high on the triples. She had three spares, Eleanor had two spares and Betsy had one spare.

The Newry Firemen Ladies Auxiliary will meet at the Sunday River Fire Station Thursday night, April 11th, with the intention of giving it a face lift. Don't forget to bring your cleaning "paraphernalia."

Happy Birthday to Bonnie Learned on April 10. "Many good wishes especially for you, filled with good health and happiness too!"

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan
This is April 2, and when the fourth month arrives we know that the stirring miracle of life's resurrection is on its way. Now the new season has come for the Earth has had its rest. In April you can feel many changes. You can feel the mellow warmth of the sun, feel the blue of the inverted sky-meadow and see the swelling buds of the maples.

In just two days here on the pond, there have been two kinds of ducks, three geese and an otter. Yesterday there were two fishermen fishing the open channel. I wonder if it became April fool.

Snow shrinks along the walls and water makes its way down the pasture slopes. There is the spirit of April everywhere. It is a month of magic.

"Oh, April! April! You tear my heart with your hurting beauty, I would pass you by this year with closed eyes. I would forget your perfume, your tenderness, your tears. I would like a quiet way without you, but I cannot... I am a prisoner of past Aprils that will not set me free." --Ina Ladd Brown--

The big event of the week was Town Meeting. There was a good attendance.

It's so nice to see the water rolling again in the pond.

On Sunday there were only four for dinner at the farm. Ray never knows if there will be four or fourteen, but she is always prepared.

It is nice to have Milton and Eleanor Inman at home again. They have been to visit me and I enjoyed hearing about their trip.

Dot Betts had some of her family over the weekend.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson

Hi readers: I'm afraid that I haven't scouted out around for much news this week. We did try to go to the supper for Win and Fran Adams at Kezar Lake Grange Hall Saturday night, but there was such a large crowd we didn't stay -- but that means it was a success and they did very well on it. The next benefit supper is for Jim Morrison and is just across the road a bit, so we should be able to make it on time.

We did not get a skunk in the live trap and no more pesky red squirrels, so guess we're all set.

The Boy Scouts' Troop 155 camped out at Horseshoe Pond on Saturday night, March 30, with five members and two adults. They were working on their outdoor skills, and from all reports they all had a good time.

On Sunday afternoon, I was taken to the Oxford Hills School-Community Broadway Musical, "Brigadoon," by Dale, Kitty and Matthew Nelson. These productions are always so very enjoyable. People don't realize how much good talent there is in this area unless they attend one of these plays. Roger Green was one of the cast, as was Amy Shibles (one of our D.U.V. members), also Danny Barker played the cello in the orchestra. I was surprised to find my seat was next to a former neighbor, Marilyn Jones and Wanda Ryerson. What a nice afternoon!

The annual meeting of the Pythian Sisters' Home Association was held on March 23 and hosted by Oozulac Temple 88 of Mexico. President Evelyn T. Bean called the executive board meeting to order. The luncheon was served by members of the host temple. Attending from East Stoneham was Arlene Merrill, Grand Chief of the Grand Temple of Maine.

Vivian Chapman and friend from Harrison called on Gladys Kilgore recently.

Wilma Taylor is at Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway for a few days of treatment.

During the services last Sunday, Debra Jones was welcomed as a new deacon of the East Stoneham Church UCC. I'm sure she will be a good one. It is good to have the younger members be active as well as the older ones.

Songo Pond

by Alice Kimball

Mr. and Mrs. Alpheo Tanguay have returned to their home here after spending the past few months visiting his sister in Tucson Ariz. A drastic change returning to freezing temperatures after basking in 80-degree readings.

A few patches of open water have appeared around edges of the pond.

Mark Hindman and his dog spent Sunday with his grandmother here and did some cleaning up out around. The dog took an unexpected swim when the ice broke away. Lee and Barbara Hindman, Bradley and Jennifer of South China were also visitors, as were Sherry and Mark from Bryant Pond.

Norma and I attended a birthday party for Sheri Swan in Auburn recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Halle of Lisbon Falls and little granddaughter Abbie, and Mrs. Grace Morrill of Bethel were recent Sunday dinner guests of the Bill Bancrofts. Greg Halle was also a caller and did some chores for his grandmother and Bill.

Norma and David Salway with Kass and Bernie Gatchell of Portland were in Old Orchard Beach last Saturday to help Brandon and Tara Salway move into a new home they have purchased there.

Wisdom doesn't necessarily come with age. Sometimes age just shows up by itself.

Upton

by Amy Geiling

Good day! I hope everyone had a pleasant Easter.

Upton Town Meeting was held on April 6. Forty voters filled the old school house. Results are as follows: Wendy Hanscom was chosen as moderator; town clerk, tax collector and treasurer, Jerry Geiling; selectman (for 3 years), Richard LeComte; School Committee member (for 3 years), Ellie LeComte; road commissioner, Mike Lewit. Congratulations to all!

School Articles 40-44 passed. The school's final budget, Article 45, was returned to the School Committee for review. All remaining articles will be voted on at the next meeting, scheduled for May 15 at 7 p.m.

Welcome home, Connie!

Sorry folks for the confusion regarding my article on the store's forgery encounter. It should be in this week's Bethel Citizen.

Simone Lavallee will be getting some R&R now that she is on vacation from the Balsams. She returns to work on May 27.

Upton roads have seen lots of deer recently. Moose are starting to emerge from the woods now that warmer days are here. The lake is still welcoming cross-country fans.

Personally, I'm looking forward to seeing canoes on vehicle roofs, bicyclists, fishermen, boaters and hikers again.

It's Trivia Time. Written in "The Richardson Lakes: Jewels In The Rangeley Chain" by Herbert P. Shirreffs, is an interesting piece of trivia. It states that in the 1860s "J.G. Rich... operated a small hotel at Upton called the Brushwood House." Does anyone know any more of this hotel?

Making P.E. honor roll for third quarter are Jessica, Courtney and Steven Lavallee.

South Woodstock

by Andrea Wing

We were saddened by the death of Dicky Baker. Dicky had been sick for quite a while and had suffered greatly. Everyone in this area knew Dicky and he will be missed. He leaves his wife and children. His sisters, Patty Thurlow and Polly Crouteau, live in South Woodstock. Our sympathy goes out to each and everyone who knew him.

I searched the sky for the eclipse of the moon this week. Finally I found it and it was very spectacular. I'm always interested in the happenings in the sky. I saw the recent comet several times during the night from my back window.

Beverly Bailey came by this week so she could print some labels on my printer for the Paris High School alumni. We had a good time visiting while she was here.

I was very impressed with the April Fool's article in the Bethel Citizen this past week. Someone has a lot of imagination.

Kenny and Sandra Poland have returned home from Florida. My sister and her husband, Evelyn and James Dunn who live in New Hampshire, are on their way home from visiting with their daughter Patricia. They stopped off in Arizona and spent a few days with our sister Dotte.

The news this morning said another snowstorm is coming this weekend. I hope this clears the air for some nice warm weather. We all could use it.

Diana Poland has been deployed to the Arabian Gulf in support of Operation Southern Watch/Vigilant Warrior. It is a temporary assignment to the air tasking order production branch of the Joint Task Force. Diana is Air Force Airman 1st Class. She is the daughter of Todd Poland of West Paris and Terri Angevine of Bethel. Diana graduated from Oxford Hills in the Class of 1993. We wish her well.

Not a lot of news this week as I've started spring cleaning even though it doesn't seem like spring. I'm in hopes to have some help next week from my grandchildren.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society, reports that the society is not involved in politics, but it studies them with some interest and encourages everyone to vote. They offer opportunities for learning and research. Mr. Billings encourages you to study all you can about antiques. The historical society preserves heirlooms of yesterday for people to enjoy in the future.

Quote of the week: "I've learned that an expert is one who takes a subject you already know and makes it sound confusing."

High Street

West Paris by Russell Yates

Howdy, friends. This is Tuesday morning, the 2nd day of April and I wonder if it is snowing in your neck of the woods like it is here. I don't expect that we can expect to have that nice weather all of the time.

Don't forget the Craft, Food and White Elephant Sale to be held at West Paris Grange Hall on May 11, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Several tables have already been reserved, and if you wish to use tables, contact Peggy Blake at 674-3872, or Mary Lovejoy at 674-2147. The price for table rental will remain at $3 per table. The Cookie Walk will be featured again this year and there will also be refreshments for sale, so come and look, you'll certainly find something that is just what you have been looking for.

There will be a dance at the West Paris Grange Hall on April 13, with more of that good old-time music by the Richard Felt Orchestra.

Spring has sprung, so get out and enjoy that toe-tapping music.

Bluebirds and robins have both been seen at the Lovejoy home, but we haven't seen either one of them here as yet. We hope that what Mary has to offer won't please them and they'll come down here instead.

Joel Martino and Allan Lovejoy of South Paris were visitors at the Lovejoy home on Monday. Marsha Baxter of Oxford visited there on Wednesday.

Peggy went down street with the pickup last Monday morning. She had several errands to do and one of them was to buy a board for making an addition to the desk in her bedroom and she needed the pickup to haul it home.

Quite often we take a short walk after having dinner when the weather is as nice as it has been the last few days. When taking our walks, we pick up what returnable bottles and cans are thrown out along the road, and when some Girl Scouts call to ask if we have cans or bottles to donate I give them the bottles and cans that we had accumulated -- my Boy Scout deed for the day.

Last Tuesday evening, Peggy and I attended the meeting of the officers and others of the Woodstock High School alumni held at the home of Alice Hoyt in Bryant Pond. Some who were expected to come failed to show up so the meeting really didn't amount to much, but we had a good time visiting and will have another meeting later on, when we hope more people will attend.

Peggy left for Bethel quite early Thursday morning. She had an appointment at Dr. Mason's office. While she was waiting for her dentures to be repaired, she went to West Bethel and spent several hours with her daughter, Loretta Merrill. Loretta takes care of two grandchildren during the day and Peggy enjoys being where she can see them perform.

While at Shop 'n Save doing errands last week, a lady recognized us and made herself known. It was Mary Emmons, who lives down on the old County Road in Woodstock, where Peggy and I grew up. Some members of her family own different parts of the old farm and live near her. A son and wife bought the area where the old house was and hope to build a home there someday.

Peggy and Doc Merrill attended the dance at Locke Mills Town Hall Saturday evening. They had quite a nice crowd and all seemed to have a good time.

Sunday found us on the go again. We decided to take advantage of the senior citizen special at Chef's Table, as did lots of other senior citizens. We were there after 11:30 a.m. and found all tables filled and lots of people standing and waiting. A space right near where we were standing soon became vacant, so we were allowed to sit down right there. We had a real good dinner consisting of broccoli cheese soup, then a plate filled with mashed potato, carrots and real honest-to-goodness ham, not some of the pressed stuff. Our dinner included rolls, and dessert consisted of tapioca pudding with topping. The whole dinner was delicious and quite a bargain at $2.95. We enjoyed it.

From there we went to Bryant Pond to take part in a rehearsal for the fifth degree, or Pomona Grange degree. We will work the degree there tonight.

After the rehearsal, we went to Oxford Legion Hall to take part in the party being given for Otis Evans, who is retiring from part of his former work and also in honor of his 75th birthday. Otis and his wife Grace were both youngsters in Bryant Pond at one time. Otis was master of Franklin Grange at one time.

We got to Otis' party in time to hear some of the good music by the Richard Felt Orchestra. We also enjoyed some of the refreshments. All were very nice. Otis and Grace have both been having their health problems, and were getting tired, but were pleased that they had such a nice party.

Local athletes honored at Gould

Gould Academy presented athletic awards to 19 students, including two from Bethel at its annual winter sports banquet last week.

Varsity hoopster Teri Chadbourne '98, daughter of Kay Larson of Bethel and Ted Chadbourne of Saco, received the Sportsmanship Award for her solid play, positive attitude, and strong work ethic on the basketball court. Chadbourne is also a member of Gould's jazz band and is a high honors student.

Another high-honors student from Bethel earned an award as well. Ninth-grader Sarah Paul, daughter of Karen Jordan Paul of Bethel and Eric Paul of Bethel, received the Most Improved Skier Award from head coach Richard Taylor for her efforts on the cross-country ski team.

Though it was only her first season of competition, Paul qualified to represent Maine at the United States Ski Association's New England JII Championships at Sugarloaf's Ski Touring Center. She was one of 20 girls from Maine who competed against the top 14- and 15-year-old racers from New England.

At this writing we are finishing up projects for this ranking period, and we are looking forward to April vacation. Vacation will be the week of April 15. Progress reports will come home on Friday, April 12. A good time to return them to school will be when you come in for parent conferences right after vacation. Conferences will be held from 3:30 to 7 p.m. on both Monday and Tuesday, April 22 and 23. Both of those days will be regular school days for the children.

The last Scholastic Book Fair of the year will be held from April 22 to 24. This is not a fundraiser for the school, but is a good deal for parents, students and teachers. We chose the option of "Buy one, get one free." With this option we do not make a profit for the school, but everyone benefits by saving money and getting good material to read.

Classroom news: The kindergarten and first-grade classes recently enjoyed a field trip to Crystal Spring Farms to learn about making maple syrup. They enjoyed sampling their syrup on pancakes back at school. Many thanks to all the parents who helped with this trip. Two more local field trips are planned for these classes. They hope to visit the Wormell Dairy Farm to see the cows, milk room and milking process. Do not put away those winter boots yet. They'll be needed for the farm. A trip to Shop 'n Save is also planned. Mrs. Mullen says the first-graders are doing lots of "egg-citing" activities this week.

Mrs. Loper's second-graders are also doing lots of egg-type activities. They have colored Ukrainian eggs and filled spring baskets with many examples of spring, like eggs and pussy willows. In reading, their theme is growing up. The next story is called "Best Friends" by Stephen Kellogg. The children will be making a personal time line of important things that have happened in their lives. In math they are learning to make change up to $1.

The third-graders are writing practically everything in cursive now, and are getting quite good at it. In math they are continuing to focus on fractions and are getting lots of help from their sixth-grade buddies. In reading the class is enjoying Beverly Cleary's books. Mrs. Merrill says that many of her third-graders really understand why Beesuz gets so frustrated with Ramona in the Cleary books.

Mrs. Koskela's fourth-graders are discovering new things about geography. They have some neat geographical features drawn on one of their chalkboards. They are doing well with their multiplication facts and are multiplying by two-digit numbers. But Mrs. K. says to keep on practicing.

Mr. Litchfield's fourth-graders are working on multiplication of money, and have math fact quizzes on Fridays. They have finished up their oral book reports, and another reading unit has been wrapped up. Both classes are looking forward to attending the Shrine Circus on April 13. The trip to the circus is an annual event sponsored by the Shriners, and is looked forward to every year.

My fifth-graders enjoyed a visit from Mr. Tim Berger as part of our drug abuse prevention efforts. Mr. Berger is responsible for getting local businesses to sponsor our "Winner" magazines. We enjoy the stories and the puzzles in the magazine. Now we are writing thank-you notes to the sponsors and to Mr. Berger. We are learning the study skill of outlining in social studies. This also makes our social studies easier to understand. We are finishing up measurement and preparing for division in math class.

Mr. Koch's sixth-graders are learning to recite the flow of blood through the heart in preparation for dissecting a cow's heart. They are working on adding and subtracting fractions. In social studies their Ancient Egyptian folders are looking good. They are reading an interesting book entitled "Mummies, Tombs and Treasures" to go along with this study.

CTY. REPUBLICANS HEAR CLEARCUTTING ISSUE

Donald Feeney of P.H. Chadbourne & Co. discussed this fall's referendum on clearcutting at the March 12 meeting of the Oxford County Republican Committee held at the Oxford Congregational Church in Oxford village.

Feeney explained that the referendum should be considered part of the Green Party's agenda since they were the ones who introduced it. If passed by the voters, it would impose prohibitive restrictions on wood harvesting and lay the groundwork for equally detrimental legislation for the rest of Maine.

Feeney urged all those attending to study this question carefully and tell others of its harmful effects upon Maine's timber industry.

After a delicious supper served by the volunteers for the Congregational Church, Oxford County Republican Committee Chairman Stan Howe of Bethel called the business meeting to order and thanked the Oxford Republican Town Committee, including town chairman John Crumpton and his wife Eve, for all their hard work in making the meeting possible and to the support committee for their work in providing a delicious meal. A moment of silence was observed in memory of County Committee member Ken Cooper of Buckfield. Chairman Howe urged all towns to get their voting lists to the State Party in Hallowell and to be certain as many towns as possible caucus to elect officers and send delegates to the State Convention on May 31 and to the County Committee.

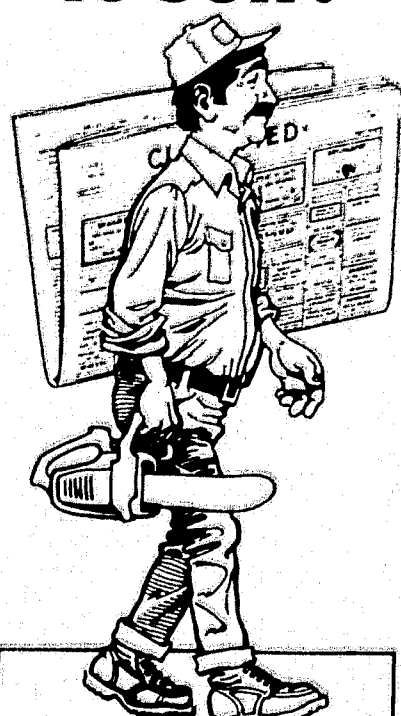

Committee pages were elected for the convention: Riley Hansen, Bethel; Wes Richardson, Andover; and Justin Gilbert of Bethel, all students at Telstar Regional High School. Becky Kendall, State Committee Woman and County Finance Chair, announced that ads are needed for the convention program. Anyone wishing to place an ad should call Becky at 824-3196.

The chairman reported for the Candidate Recruitment Committee that the party had managed to field candidates for all legislative seats representing Oxford County. Representatives from Senators Cohen and Sweeney were present. A number of candidates and incumbents were recognized including Dick Landis, Elinor Tracy, Vic Frank, Richard Varney, Rep. Dan Underwood (R-Oxford), Rep. Dan Cameron (R-Rumford), Rep. Tom Winsor (R-Norway). Also recognized were County Commissioner Steve Merrill of Norway and Oxford County Sheriff Lloyd Erickson.

The May 14 meeting will be in Hallowell and it was noted not to meet in June since the regular meeting date comes on Primary Day. A special election to benefit the Oxford County Republican Committee was held following the meeting with Rep. Cameron serving as auctioneer.

STEVEN W. BREESER

Steven W. Breerer, 46, a professional wildlife administrator for 23 years with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and manager of the service's Lake Umbagog National Wildlife Refuge, died Thursday, April 4, 1996, from complications of leukemia, at the Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center in Lebanon, N.H.

"Steve was an outstanding refuge manager," said Ronald E. Lamberton, regional director of the service's Northeast Region. "He had a fine reputation as an individual who could find a way to get even the most complex tasks accomplished. His death is a genuine loss to the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, and of course to his wonderful family."

"Although he was diagnosed with leukemia a year ago, Steve continued to work as hard as he could to complete the important land transactions necessary to create the refuge. It was part of his total commitment to his work as a wildlife manager and his determination to make a difference for wildlife and people. He did an outstanding job, and we will miss him greatly," Lamberton said.

Breerer's health took a turn for the worse in recent weeks. He passed away at 1:30 a.m. with his family by his side.

Breerer requested to be buried in the uniform he wore as manager of Lake Umbagog National Wildlife Refuge.

She enjoyed spending time with her family, reading books, and completing crossword puzzles. She lived in Bryant Pond all of her life and married Lee M. Billings on Sept. 25, 1946. He died on Sept. 18, 1995.

She is survived by three daughters, Linda Tyler of Dixfield, Louise Chapman and Suzanne Silver, both of Bryant Pond; one son, Malcolm Billings of Bryant Pond; a half-brother, Lloyd Davis, also of Bryant Pond; eight grandchildren; and two great-grandsons.
